A Word from our President

Greetings Indiana members!

I trust that everyone is just as busy as ever as spring has passed and summer is here! I know that right now all of us probably feel like we are trying to juggle 5 balls standing on 1 toe. And while I know that we all could use a 10 day week to get things done I want to remind each of you about the opportunities to learn and share our industry with the public. Currently there are county fairs going on and will continue through next month. Take the opportunity to share and grow your business as well as educate people during this time. Don't forget the state fair after that and our location in pioneer village. If you can take a day or even an hour or two when you visit the fair to hang around the machine to speak with people about our industry and the benefits it provides.

And while you are thinking about writing all these dates in your calendar go to the National website and register for the Summer Meeting! Nebraska has put together a great week for us in Lincoln! There are some very exciting tours planned and I have no doubts that there will be some good seminars as well. Take the time next month to hit up Lincoln and visit with members from across the country.

Another important date for all of us in Indiana is July 25. That is the day of our fellow member's retirement auction. So go to BigIron.com and be ready to buy some equipment to upgrade or expand your fleet! Our National Vice President even says there will be a good time during the inspection the day before.

Last and not even close to being the least, I want to extend congratulations from Indiana to the LICA Educational Foundation for Veterans first heavy equipment training graduate Frankie Damiano! Please take some time and look at the article about him and the Foundation in the current edition of The LICA Contractor.

Joe Stull, INLICA President

10 Essential Cybersecurity Controls

Cyber incidents—including data breaches, ransomware attacks and social engineering scams—have become increasingly prevalent, impacting organizations of all sizes and industries. As such, here are 10 essential cybersecurity controls that organizations can implement to help manage their cyber exposures:

1. Multifactor authentication (MFA)—While complex passwords can help deter cybercriminals, they can still be cracked. MFA can help prevent cybercriminals from gaining access to employees' accounts and using such access to launch potential attacks.
2. Endpoint detection and response (EDR) solutions—EDR solutions continuously monitor security-related threat information to detect and respond to ransomware and other malware.
3. Patch management—Patches modify operating systems and software to enhance security, fix bugs and improve performance. Created by vendors, patches address key vulnerabilities cybercriminals may target. The patch management process can be carried out by organizations' IT departments, automated patch management tools or a combination of both.
4. Network segmentation—Network segmentation refers to dividing larger networks into smaller segments (also called subnetworks) through the use of switches and routers, permitting organizations to better monitor and control the flow of traffic between these segments.
5. End-of-life (EOL) software management—EOL software has vulnerabilities that cybercriminals can easily exploit. Proactive EOL software management is necessary to prevent unwelcome surprises and maintain organizational cybersecurity.
6. Remote desk protocol (RDP) safeguards—To safeguard their RDP ports, organizations should keep ports turned off whenever they aren't in use, ensure they aren't left open to the internet and promote overall interface security through the use of a virtual private connection and MFA.
7. Email authentication technology—It's paramount that organizations utilize email authentication technology, which monitors incoming emails and determines the validity of these messages based on specific sender verification standards that organizations have in place.
8. Secure data backups—One of the best ways for organizations to protect sensitive information and data from cybercriminals is by conducting frequent and secure backups.
9. Incident response planning—Cyber incident response plans can help organizations establish protocols for detecting and containing digital threats, remaining operational and mitigating losses in a timely manner amid cyber events.
10. Employee training—Employees are widely considered organizations' first line of defense against cyber incidents. Training should center around helping employees properly identify and respond to common cyberthreats.

Hand, Wrist and Finger Injuries

Protection recommendations to reduce injuries

Throughout the day, your hands can come in contact with a multitude of hazards.

Hand, wrist and finger injuries are among the most common ailments suffered by workers, and can be not only extremely painful, but also debilitating.

To avoid suffering from a hand, wrist or finger injury, you must recognize potential hazards and take the proper steps to avoid them.

Know the Hazards

There are many tasks and operations that present hazards to your hands.

Cutting tools operating at high speeds

Heavy machinery

Extreme temperatures

Pinch points

Equipment without machine guards

Wearing loose clothing that can get caught in a machine and pull body parts with it

Corrosive chemicals

Take Precautions

To avoid hand, wrist and finger injuries, consider the following precautions:

Develop a “safety first” attitude and take time to familiarize yourself with the hazards in your working environment.

Concentrate on the task at hand, and avoid distractions.

Use common sense, and remain alert for unexpected problems.

Pick PPE Wisely

Personal protective equipment (PPE) is designed to shield your body from hazards. Since the hands, wrists and fingers are so susceptible to injuries, there are many varieties of PPE to choose from.

Select gloves that are appropriate for the task at hand. Make sure they are long enough to cover your wrists and fit correctly. Gloves that are too big can get caught in machinery; however, gloves that are too small can wear out easily.

Leather gloves provide protection from bruises, cuts and minor burns. Cut-resistant gloves offer shielding from sharp-edged tools. Heat-resistant gloves offer protection against burns. Rubber, vinyl or neoprene gloves shield hands from corrosive materials.

Barrier creams applied to the skin provide an invisible protective coating against minor irritations.

Guards or hand pads protect against heat and abrasive materials.

Finger guards protect against pinch hazards

Be safe and healthy on the job at Indiana LICA with these helpful tips provided by Prins Insurance, Inc.

“According to OSHA, 70 percent of work-related hand, wrist and finger injuries involved workers who were not wearing gloves. The other 30 percent involved workers who were wearing gloves that were either the wrong type or damaged.”
